About the 52 Shaktipeethas

According to Hindu scriptures (Devi Bhagavatam, Devi Purana, Kalika Purana), the 52 (or 51) Shaktipeethas are sacred seats of the Divine Mother scattered across the Indian subcontinent. They mark the spots where the body parts of Goddess Sati fell when Lord Vishnu used his Sudarshana Chakra to cut her body, in order to stop Lord Shiva's devastated wandering with her corpse.

Each Shaktipeetha has a presiding Devi (Shakti) and a Bhairav (Shiva). Together they represent the divine union of Shakti and Shiva. Pilgrimage to all 52 Shaktipeethas is considered one of the most meritorious acts in Hinduism. Devotees who visit all peethas are believed to attain Moksha (liberation).
